Certificate of Practical Module

Angewandte Informatik B.Sc.

Angewandte Informatik (öffentlicher Dienst) Dual B.Sc.

For students who are enrolled at our university in the aforementioned course of study (current certificate of enrollment attached), the following applies:

According to §5, paragraph 1 of the examination regulations, a total of 24 weeks are included in the standard study period of six semesters, which must be used to complete a modularly structured practical module in accordance with §20, paragraph 1, 4 of the general examination regulations.

For the full-time study program Applied Computer Science B.Sc., a total of 900 hours of work are required within the framework of the practical module. For dual students, a total of 700 hours is required.

The following must be noted:

- The mandatory practical modules can be divided into several internships.
- Tasks during internship must have a direct reference to the field of study. It is the responsibility of the student to clarify with the study guidance whether this reference is provided. It is recommended to clarify this in advance with the study guidance.
- The duration of the individual internships can be individually agreed upon by the student in consultation with the internship provider. The internships can be divided into blocks. One block must cover at least 150 hours. Additionally, both practical modules can be combined into one.
- The respective company will issue a certificate regarding the scope and nature of the activity, as well as the number of absences to the student. Vacation days and sick days do not need to be shown separately on the internship certificate.
- Student work experience can only be recognized at the beginning of the course or if it was completed as part of a practical module with a suitable activity.
- The bachelor's degree is not considered completed until the prescribed practical module has been fully completed in accordance with the examination regulations.

This certificate was created by a computer and is valid without a signature. Additions and changes require the express confirmation by the study management.
