BUSINESS LAW - EMPLOYMENT LAW AND HR MANAGEMENT LL.M.

PROGRAM OBJECTIVES

In our three-semester degree program, we instruct you on the specialized areas of labor law and human resources management, interweaving important interrelations in the fields of law and business. The subject matter is reinforced by lectures, company visits, and field trips. In addition to our professors, our teaching staff includes lecturers from human resources departments, judges, and attorneys. All this ensures a practical and attractive degree program.

PROGRAM STRUCTURE

In the first two semesters, in-depth knowledge of employment law is taught on a high level. This knowledge is supplemented by modules from the field of human resources management. During the third semester, you write your master's thesis and attend a colloquium. You are also required to complete a six-week internship in a labor law or human resources department. The exam preparatory course parallel to your internship offers you a condensed way

PROSPECTS

Completing the degree program qualifies graduates for challenging management activities in all areas of labor law and human resources. The program concludes with the awarding of the academic degree Master of Laws (LL.M.), which is an accredited degree that qualifies graduates to pursue a doctoral degree.
